Has that particular file you came here to get no longer showing up on the Downloads page?

If, for example, you were looking for Kiba 09 and it was on the Downloads page yesterday but now it's nowhere to be found, there may be a simple explanation.
And, no, I don't mean the server screwed up :D

This Direct Download site only has about 20GB of webspace available, and that includes the the downloads, the webpages, and all the little image files and miscellaneous other files that make up this website. So, if the episode you were looking for isn't here anymore, check to see if it was an older episode. If it was, it's most likely that the file was removed from the server as it wasn't getting very many hits and the space was needed for a newer episode.

At the time of writing this FAQ there is/was still plenty of space left on the server so if files seem to be disappearing still, send us an email with the Contact Us button on the right.
When the server starts to fill up a Newsflash item will be posted letting all visitors of this site know about it. So if that newsflash has been posted and files are disappearing you don't need to email us, just re-read the first part of this FAQ. :)

As an addendum, if there are a large enough amount of requests for a particular file/episode it can be added back to the site when room is available. And we mean by individual users, one of you emailing us 50 times a day, every day WILL NOT get you results. In fact it may cause us to take action against the offender (i.e. blocked from the site, etc). But, please, don't force us into a position like that.
